Funding Available to Increase Vaccine Awareness

The Division of Diversity and Engagement RFP Closing Soon

Student Success and Sponsorship is February 15 at noon for spring and summer projects. For more information contact Javiette Samuel, assistant vice chancellor at jsamuel@utk.edu.

UT College of Law Legal Clinic has been awarded a $3,000 grant by the COVID-19 Advocacy Fund to support the UT College of Law Legal Clinic’s ability to be more responsive to communities of color most harmed by the pandemic. The clinic’s work with low-income clients and those with limited legal resources who are disproportionately impacted by racism and structural inequality is furthered by this funding.

UT Legal Clinic to Study Systemic Racism

The UT College of Law Legal Clinic has been awarded a $3,000 grant by the COVID-19 Advocacy Fund to support the UT College of Law Legal Clinic’s ability to be more responsive to communities of color most harmed by the pandemic. The clinic’s work with low-income clients and those with limited legal resources who are disproportionately impacted by racism and structural inequality is furthered by this funding.

More Resources for Women Studying Engineering, Have you heard of Under 40 Class of 2020?

The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is celebrating its 16th Annual Black History Month event, titled GooseChase: A Black History Month Escape Room. Educators supporting public and private K-12 schools, and community members are invited to participate in the event, titled GooseChase: A Black History Month Escape Room. Educators supporting public and private K-12 schools, and community members are invited to participate in the event.

Trailblazing Doctoral Student Joins Knox.Biz 40 Under 40 Class of 2020

Clarice Phelps, a doctoral candidate in the Department of Nuclear Engineering, has been recognized by Knox Biz Magazine for her contributions and accomplishments.

UT Students Design Spaces for Black History Month

The Division of Diversity and Engagement will begin in early March.

UT Legal Clinic to Study Systemic Racism

The UT College of Law Legal Clinic has been awarded a $3,000 grant by the COVID-19 Advocacy Fund to support the UT College of Law Legal Clinic’s ability to be more responsive to communities of color most harmed by the pandemic. The clinic’s work with low-income clients and those with limited legal resources who are disproportionately impacted by racism and structural inequality is furthered by this funding.

More Resources for Women Studying Engineering

The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is celebrating its 16th Annual Black History Month event, titled GooseChase: A Black History Month Escape Room. Educators supporting public and private K-12 schools, and community members are invited to participate in the event, titled GooseChase: A Black History Month Escape Room. Educators supporting public and private K-12 schools, and community members are invited to participate in the event.